ATR VERDICT: AYIKO split a talented pair trained by Willie Mullins when finishing second over 2m7f at Fairyhouse last month and a repeat of that form may well be good enough to see him go one better here. That said, Jo Coko displayed plenty of promise when also filling the runner-up spot on his Rules debut and he could give the selection plenty to think about. Others to note are Knightphase, Tommys Law and Orkney Blue.

ATR VERDICT: BARRA BLUE disappointed at Fakenham recently having bolted up over C&D in December. That effort might raise concerns, but the daughter of Blue Bresil has less to prove than many and it would come as no surprise were she to bounce back at a venue that clearly suits. Coco Brave showed enough on her reappearance to suggest she can be a force today, while Call Blue, who sports cheekpieces for the first time, is also noted.

ATR VERDICT: ALBATALA finished the race in a taking manner when she was a respectable second in a deeper-looking event over C&D at the St Stephen's Day fixture and could go one better today if she builds on that from just a 4lb higher mark. Lady Rose Hackett and Thisistheway also have something to recommend them in this company, while Katherine reverts to hurdles on a fair mark and is another to consider.

ATR VERDICT: Most of these have questions to answer, but not CHAPEL GREEN following his impressive success over 2m at Musselburgh in November. A 6lb rise for that win appears to be fair and the eight-year-old tops the shortlist. The main threat is likely to be Cold Sobar, who was not disgraced on his return from a lengthy break at Carlisle last month. Fia Fuinidh failed to fire last time but is a player based on his previous form.

ATR VERDICT: Land Afar was no match for a short-priced winner at Huntingdon recently and though the son of Kalinisi sets the standard, the 10-year-old could prove vulnerable to younger legs and BARLOVENTO is preferred. Olly Murphy's charge flattered to receive at Warwick last time having won at Carlisle on his hurdling debut, but the break should have done him some good and he can get back on track. Kepler's Law might be booked for third.

ATR VERDICT: Cases can be made for plenty of these, but none more so than ONE LAST TANGO. The eight-year-old was only beaten a length when fourth in a competitive handicap over 2m1f at Leopardstown last month and that form gives him a big chance here. Zurich won over hurdles in France and has to be noted following his encouraging fourth on debut for these connections at Punchestown, while Listentillitellyea and Step Out are others with strong form claims.

ATR VERDICT: Shillanavogy has to be respected having got off the mark over fences at Fontwell last time, although a 6lb rise will make life tougher for him here. As a result, preference is for LAZY SUNDAY, who chased home a progressive rival at Lingfield last month and that form gives her a big chance. Percy Veering also hit the crossbar on his most recent outing and is the pick of the remainder.

ATR VERDICT: RIGHTFOLKSPLEASE was only beaten a short-head when second over 2m1f at Sligo in October and was third on his sole subsequent start over fences at Naas last month. This step up in trip may bring about the required improvement to see the seven-year-old return to winning ways. ATR VERDICT: ACHILLE DES ROCS confirmed the promise that he displayed when winning a maiden hurdle at Southwell in November by scoring on his handicap debut over 2m3f at Catterick last month. A 4lb rise for that success may still underestimate this progressive six-year-old and he has to be of interest. Snapius (first) and Trust House (second) are closely matched based on their meeting at Lingfield last time and they could both be in the mix once again.

ATR VERDICT: TIMMY TUESDAY was second to a potentially smart Willie Mullins-trained improver at Limerick last month and, although well held by that rival, it was still an encouraging enough effort to suggest he can take the lead role here. I Wish You, who won a novices' hurdle at Carlisle on his penultimate start, is weighted to have an impact on just his second start in a handicap. Ruby Island is a previous course winner who looks worth another try over this sort of trip.

ATR VERDICT: CABALLO DE GUERRA was a promising third on debut in a similar event at Wetherby last month and, given he was the market leader on that occasion, similar betting support for the four-year-old would be highly tempting now he has racecourse experience under his belt. The selection's stable companions, Triple Crown Ted and Kanitamay, bolster a potentially strong hand for Lucinda Russell. However, They're Chancers, who cost 70,000 euros as a three-year-old, and the well-bred Count Adhemar tick the right boxes on paper and rate the most intriguing of the debutants.

ATR VERDICT: SHE'SASHAMBLES has put together a series of respectable enough efforts to suggest she can finally break her duck on the all-weather in this modest handicap. Noble Captain is closely matched with Phillip Makin's filly based on an encounter over C&D last month and can be a thorn in her side if the low draw isn't a hindrance. From stall 11, Bungle Bay, who won over 7f at Wolverhampton last month, has fared better on that score and can also figure if dropping back a furlong isn't an issue.

ATR VERDICT: A respectable second off the same mark in a similar C&D event last month, TOMMYTWOHOOTS has a decent chance of enhancing his reputation with a third career success on Tapeta. The form of that race has been well advertised by the third home winning twice since and another bold showing can be expected. The unexposed Kranjcar is notable back over 6f and is forwarded as the chief threat on just his second start in a handicap. Pockley and Fircombe Hall are others to consider.

ATR VERDICT: MINERS GAMBLE shaped well when a close-up third behind Cusack (winner) over C&D a week ago having been off the track for four months, so it would come as no surprise were Brian Ellison's charge able to reverse that form on these revised terms. The improving Time Tested, who won over 1m2f at Lingfield recently, looks to be a real threat, while Wyvern ought to relish a return to further and he is not without a chance either.

ATR VERDICT: It's not a particularly lofty standard set by Pride Of Donegal and though he can be expected to be thereabouts, newcomer INSPIRED is taken to get off to the perfect start. A 300,000gns purchase, a son of Dubawi and whose dam was a Group 2 winner herself, she looks the part on paper and would not have to be anything out of the ordinary to score here. Fellow debutant City Landscape has to be of interest too, but it is a slight concern that connections already reach for a tongue-tie and blinkers.

ATR VERDICT: Second at Kempton in September before occupying the same position over C&D recently, PENELOPE VALENTINE has far less to prove than many of these and she is taken to go one place better now. Bantz, who was third behind the selection last time out, might be best positioned to make a challenge, while Black Sky would need to improve on what he's shown so far but a step up in trip could work the oracle.

ATR VERDICT: BRAZILIAN ROSE arrives here on the back of a hat-trick of victories over 6f at this venue in recent weeks and the daughter of Calyx is hard to oppose off just 1lb higher than the latest of those victories on Friday. Streak Lightning may have to settle for second place once again, while Ahamoment and Bobby Joe Leg are the pick of the remainder.

ATR VERDICT: In a moderate event, FRANKIES DREAM clearly sets the standard. The son of Belardo scored over 5f at Wolverhampton two starts ago and only found one too good off this mark at Lingfield most recently. That form gives him the edge over Until Dawn, who showed promise when fourth on her handicap debut earlier in the month, while Cuban Lynx completes the shortlist.

Top Tip: FRANKIES DREAM (5)

Watch out for: UNTIL DAWN (4)
