ATR VERDICT: Yy Nation should have learned plenty from his opening bid in a class 3 maiden at York last month and this drop into class 5 company should see him in a better light. However, Karl Burke's charge could prove vulnerable to a newcomer, with PROUD NATION topping the bill. The Sioux Nation colt fetched 320,000 euros at the Arqana breeze-up sale in May and connections will be hoping to recoup some of that expenditure here. Fellow debutant Urgent Call is also worth a market check.

ATR VERDICT: A slow start didn't help SPIRIT STAR, who finished fourth behind Redditizio (second) at Yarmouth last time out. Marco Botti's charge is 1lb better off with that rival here though and providing she breaks on terms, that form could be reversed. Brightling struggled in a match race at Bath last time but remains of interest, while market support for nursery-debutant Dandy Orton would be noteworthy.

ATR VERDICT: Despite weakening into sixth over 2m at Kempton last month, NIGHT HORN displayed more verve in first-time cheekpieces. A drop in trip and 2lb in the ratings could prove fruitful for Michael Keady's gelding and a breakthrough victory could be on the cards. Made All is likely to prove popular after regaining the winning thread at Catterick six days ago and merits respect under a 5lb penalty. Ana Emaraaty is the pick of the remainder.

Second and fourth on his two starts since joining George Baker, the veteran may have another win in him despite his advancing years. Angle Land is an obvious danger after her Yarmouth second off 1lb lower, with her stablemate Speed Of Maajid is the pick for third place.

ATR VERDICT: Trainer Jim Goldie won this in 2022 and has chances again here with Ayr fourth Jm Jhingree, who may make the running if he gets away smartly. Brazilian Belle should prove popular after her victory at Thirsk and a 6lb penalty may not stop her challenging, but MISS BRAZEN is still preferred. A three-and-a-quarter length winner at Thirsk in June, she was only beaten a head off 1lb lower despite losing a shoe at Doncaster and could get back to winning ways.

ATR VERDICT: Trojan Sun has won two races from 17 starts, but both of those were here, one over shorter and one over further. He has to bounce back after a poor run at Southwell but may do better at his favourite course. SIMPLE STAR won over hurdles at Perth earlier in the month and is expected to go well, having won off 2lb higher in the past, leaving Young Merlin as an interesting alternative on his first start for Rebecca Menzies.

ATR VERDICT: Spiritualism showed marked improvement after undergoing a wind operation to score at Wetherby last month and is likely to have her supporters with Hollie Doyle booked. However, LADY MODENA took a step forward to shed her maiden tag at Wolverhampton last time and now makes her handicap debut off a mark of 72. That rating could prove to be workable and she looks the one to beat. Miss Collada completes the shortlist.

ATR VERDICT: Keep Me Stable completed a course double at the start of the month, but is 4lb higher than his latest success and may need to take another step forward. With that in mind, MERESIDE MADNESS gets the vote. The Barrons' four-year-old made his way through the field to run out a length and a half victor at Thirsk last time and can defy his 3lb rise. Arbitration isn't ruled out either.

ATR VERDICT: The progressive SUNNY SOUTH WEST might be able to concede weight to his rivals. A bumper winner at Clonmel in March, the Eddie Power-trained gelding was far from disgraced when fifth in the Grade 1 equivalent at the Punchestown festival subsequently. Having added a second bumper win at Tipperary in May, the five-year-old made a winning debut over hurdles at Cork earlier this month. Clearly on the upgrade, he can add to his sequence. A winner in handicap company here last time. I Am Mimi shouldn't be far away. Ned In The Park is much better than the form of his recent Roscommon run suggests.

ATR VERDICT: With Tiernan Power Roche claiming a valuable 5lb, it might be worth taking a chance on MERCURY MISSION. While his recent efforts have been disappointing, he did win at Wexford and Limerick earlier in the year and finished a good sixth of 22 in a competitive affair at the Punchestown Festival. Making the breakthrough at this venue in May, with two subsequent winners behind, Net Boy is sure to prove popular with punters. While having to contend with top-weight, he still might be ahead of the handicapper off his current mark of 120. No worse than second in four visits to Ballinrobe, Drumgill warrants the utmost respect, while The Mediator and Jake Peter are others capable of making an impact.

ATR VERDICT: A weak affair and if the market speaks positively, CHANCE ANOTHER ONE will be hard to beat. The winner of a point-to-point when in the care of Cormac Doyle, he subsequently failed to make an impact in five starts for Shane Duffy. Now with Emmet Mullins and Slattery Bloodstock Limited, the Laverock six-year-old is fitted with a tongue-strap for the first time. Another Duffy to Mullins transfer yielded a positive result earlier this year, with Darcy's Friend landing a significant gamble on his debut for the latter at Leopardstown in March. Beaten by just a head on his first outing for Liam Cusack at Listowel in May, Lariat should give a good account of himself, while Klassman and top-weight Scottish Dancer are other leading hopes.
