ATR VERDICT: Up The Agenda continued his upward trajectory when completing a double at Newcastle 18 days ago and a 4lb higher mark is unlikely to prevent another bold bid. However, LORD HARCOURT's breakthrough victory over C&D earlier this month could prove to be stronger form, with the third subsequently scoring on Boxing Day. Ed Walker's inmate is slightly more compelling and further glory may be imminent. Reopposing runner-up Akabusi must also enter calculations.

Long Handicap: Elfride 9 - 12

ATR VERDICT: Bollin Thou might represent a bit of each-way value with Sean Bowen in the plate, while chances are also given to La Higuera and Farmer Jimmy. However, the verdict is for GLENGOLLY. He wasn't without his supporters when coming good at Hereford recently and the gut feeling is there is a lot more to come from the six-year-old. Gavin Sheehan is back in the saddle and a bold showing looks assured.

ATR VERDICT: CLEARPOINT has proved a revelation since being ridden more positively and a four-timer could be on the cards. The five-year-old is only 4lb higher than his latest triumph at Wolverhampton and may still be a step ahead of the assessor. Baldomero has scored on two of his last three outings and is likely to be in the thick of the action once more, with Almaty Star the pick of the remainder.

ATR VERDICT: INISHCORKER was well fancied for a maiden hurdle at Haydock last time out and could only manage third, but this doesn't look as competitive and Rebecca Curtis' charge is well worth another chance. The point-to-point winner gets the nod ahead of Lon Chaney, who finished second at Leicester and should be improving. Firm But Fair is best of the rest.

With that in mind, the 108-rated TYRRHENIAN SEA could be the way to go. Roger Varian's veteran arrives on the back of a good third over 1m at Kempton and he looks ready for a return to this trip.

ATR VERDICT: A 1lb ease in the ratings could prove to be lenient for last-time-out course third WAY TO DUBAI and a fourth career victory may be on the cards. The son of Holy Roman Emperor has been shaping as if a return to this distance will suit and he edges the vote over Rey De La Batalla. The four-year-old finished third over 7f here recently and a similar performance should see him involved. The downgraded Invited may also feature.

ATR VERDICT: KALHANDRION proved a different proposition when making a winning chase/seasonal debut at Huntingdon last month. A 6lb higher mark looks fair given how far the selection and runner-up pulled clear of the third and a double may beckon. Il Va De Soi should have learned plenty from his first attempt over fences when hitting the frame at Bangor 49 days ago and isn't taken lightly easing in class, with Genietoile boasting a similar profile.

ATR VERDICT: Having shaped with promise on her debut seventh in an 18-runner bumper at Cheltenham in April, RAINBOW TARA could be ready to strike on her stable debut for Dan Skelton. The five-year-old looks just the type to have improved for a summer on her back and rates as the one to beat. Loro White represents another top stable and market support on her opening bid could prove significant. Point-to-point runner-up Arbor Rose is also worth a second look.
