ATR VERDICT: Punchbowl Flyer has to be respected following his recent Chepstow success, but a 4lb penalty demands more from the veteran. As a result, preference is for LOHOOBB, who has been running well but struggling get home over 7f of late. Down in trip here, Owen Burrows' colt could be hard to stop. Others to note are Grey Horizon and On Edge.

ATR VERDICT: With five wins in 2026 already, Roaring Ralph is a credit to connections and must be on the shortlist. The downside is that flatter surfaces appear to suit him best and this uphill finish might not be ideal. A four-time course winner, Coolree has nothing to prove in that regard and he could have a bigger say back here. Nevertheless, preference is for THIS FARH, who had a length to spare over the latter when he won over C&D last month and is dependable enough to uphold the form.

ATR VERDICT: Tamzan has been consistent without winning and it's interesting to see her pitched back into maiden company. It's been a quiet time for the yard, so any support in the betting would be noteworthy. However, REGAL DESIRE is open to much more improvement and could be the answer if she builds on the promising second from her debut at Southwell last month. Three No Trumps and Alterity are others to keep an eye on.

ATR VERDICT: BUCKLAND BELLE has taken a big step forward since being switched to turf with a victory at Windsor backed up by a placed effort over the same C&D earlier this month. Off the same mark as the most recent run, Ollie Sangster's filly is capable of further improvement. Sorted has been running well without getting his head in front this year and returned from a small break when fourth at Wolverhampton last Tuesday. He can enter the reckoning, along with Scarfo and Mooretown Lad.

ATR VERDICT: HELMSLEY returned to form when second to an improver at Chester recently and would appear to have every chance of going one place better on this occasion. Qitaal also occupied the runner-up spot when beaten a head at Ripon last time and is the obvious danger ahead of Mao Shang Wong, who won't find this as taxing as his most recent start at York.

That said, Stan Moore's mare boasts a consistent profile and is likely to be very competitive once again. Others to note include Knightmare and Whiskey Sunrise.

ATR VERDICT: This won't take much winning and it might be wise to side with one of the three handicap debutants. Turton and Ice Show have shown mildly encouraging signs so far and though the same probably can't be said of ROYAL SIZZLER, it is Michael Dods' filly who gets the vote. She has some stamina on the dam's side of her pedigree and could do better now upped in trip.

ATR VERDICT: Drying conditions can only benefit Bizou after a below-par effort with cut in the ground when seeking a hat-trick at Goodwood earlier in the month. Fast Steps has run with credit on both starts this season at Windsor and has to be of interest, but the vote goes to SOLANNA. A winner at Kempton in March, the seven-year-old may well have finished closer to the winner at Yarmouth last time, had he not been hampered at a crucial stage, and has every chance running off the same mark.

ATR VERDICT: SAINT POLO doesn't have many miles on the clock and is difficult to oppose given that he escapes a penalty for a comprehensive Stratford victory. His main danger could be the veteran Cogital, who remains competitively treated having struck over C&D earlier this month. Linden Lane was far from disgraced when finishing third over track and trip latest and is most appealing of the remainder.

ATR VERDICT: PHANTOM GOLD posted a respectable effort to finish second on his handicap debut at Southwell and looks capable of taking another step forward, with the additional two and a half furlongs likely to be a suitable test. A C&D winner last month, Makinbecon is a plausible danger, although Saucats was a close second in that race and he could have a bigger say being 3lb better off. The latter was stretched over 2m4f at Uttoxeter last time and reverting to this trip could be a good more.

ATR VERDICT: This is only a moderate contest in which HATOS is fancied to make amends having unseated his rider when three lengths clear two from home at Fontwell. Fencing newcomer Jetty May is fitted with cheekpieces for the first time and wouldn't need to be anything out of the ordinary to feature, whilst the relatively consistent Edgewell could claim minor honours.
